

Holger Danowsky, Member of the Board, responsible for IT Management Consulting

„IT operations make a large part of IT costs. In order to realize effective improvements, intelligent sourcing strategies as well as a systematic service and supplier management are needed to optimize the relevant processes. We attach great importance to including all related processes and offer technology-independent consultancy and implementation.“

Holger Danowsky (born in 1961) studied Computer Science in Cologne. After that, he established the key account sales department at Citycomp (computer system house) in Hamburg. In 1990 he took over responsibility for the insurance customers account management section at CompuNet AG in Hamburg. He became director and partner of the company in 1992 and was responsible for Sales and Consulting. After selling CompuNet to General Electric in 1996, he and some partners founded a company named pob (point of business), which has been operating under the name of Lufthansa Systems Network since 1998. At pob he was responsible for the sales department and for IT outsourcing offers.

As one of the main shareholders of SITGATE AG and a member of SITGATE executive board he turned his main attention to key account consulting – particularly in the banks and insurance sector - addressing the topics „Optimization of IT operations“ and „IT Sourcing“.

After selling SITGATE AG in 2007 and the merging of SITGATE into adesso AG in 2010 Holger Danowsky became a member of adesso executive board, being responsible for IT Management Consulting.
