

Christoph Junge, Member of the Board, responsible for Finance, Human Resources, Administration & Legal Affairs

“Growth is only sensible for a company when it is connected to actual goals. We want to grow in order to be able to offer our customers a basis that constantly expands and becomes more solid in order to increase the value of the company and to offer our employees additional opportunities for development. For this, growth and profitability must be kept in balance. adesso stands for an open and active communication of strategy, goals, and progression – and even regression – on the capital market.”

Christoph Junge (born in 1970) finished his studies as a graduate engineer in economics in 1997. Still a student, he founded his first consulting company in Hamburg, where he was in charge of the customer acquisition.

After finishing his studies he acted first at Angermann & Partner M&A GmbH in Hamburg, where he accompanied numerous fusions and acquisitions, built up IT/Technology Group of M&A International Inc., and finally became a member of the director’s board. As managing director and shareholder he was responsible for the build-up and direction of the Emissions Consulting division.

Finally, Christoph Junge switched to BOV AG as director of corporate development, where he was i.e. responsible for defining the acquisition strategy and the build-up of international collaborative work with investment banks, M&A consultants, banks, and accountants.

Since 2001 he had been working as Chief Financial Officer and member of the board of directors at plan business AG, where he i.e. directed the fusion of two company groups and the construction of a holding.

In 2003 Christoph Junge switched back to BOV AG, where he was responsible for all commercial divisions of the company and investor relations activities as the Director of Finance and Company Development.

With the merger of BOV AG and adesso Christoph Junge took over the Finance department (i.e. Mergers & Acquisitions and Investor Relations) at “new” adesso AG.

Since 2010 he is in charge of the Human Resources department and in 2011 he assumed responsibility for the units Administration and Legal Affairs.
