

Dr. Rüdiger Striemer, Member of the Board, responsible for Software Development & Corporate Communications

"In our line of work, expertise and communication are important keywords. We master new technologies long before implementing them in our customer's projects. And we put strong emphasis on the fact that all employees, including the technical experts, are familiar with the respective industry-specific background. Because, only if mutual understanding of customer and service provider exists, the best solutions can be developed. "

Dr. Rüdiger Striemer (born in 1968) studied economics with focus on Marketing, Finances and Information Systems. After his studies, he started working as a scientific employee at the Fraunhofer Institute for Software and System Technology, where he was responsible for a task force of company consultants and scientists.

He received his doctorate in Information Technology at the Technical University of Berlin in 1998, and came to the adesso AG in 1999. Here he worked as the Business Development Manager at first and formed the company into a full-service provider for e-business.

With moving into the board of directors of adesso AG in 2001 he took over responsibility for Corporate Communications. Since 2002, Dr. Rüdiger Striemer has also been responsible for the Software Development department. Moreover, he oversees the adesso shareholdings in Austria and Switzerland as well as other holding companies. Dr. Rüdiger Striemer acts as Co-CEO since 2011.